Rev. Leon Paulin

This year, the St. Michael's College community has encountered some changes around and about the campus. With the construction of the new townhouses, and the women students outnumbering the men for the first time, the college has come a long way since its founding in 1903.

During the various stages of transformation, one very special person has been able to experience it all firsthand. Rev. Leon Paulin is as enthusiastic and adventurous as he was when he arrived at St. Michael's as an undergraduate. He deserves recognition for his inexhaustible devotion to the countless number of students who have come and gone throughout the years.

Rev. Paulin is a 1937 graduate of St. Michael's and is a member, and former superior, of the Society of St. Edmund. After being ordained in 1941, Rev. Paulin, a Canadian native, went on to attend the University of Montreal. He completed his studies in 1944 and was the first priest to attend the New York Theological Seminary, where he received a master's of sacred theology.

Nicknamed the "Renaissance Professor," he is extremely gifted as a priest, professor, linguist and artist. Whether he is painting, teaching calligraphy or French or talking informally with students, the beauty of his talent is always evident.

Retired from a full-time position in 1980, Rev. Paulin remains active both on and off campus. He works closely with alumni and is frequently on the road meeting with incoming students. In the past, he served as class adviser and official photographer for the St. Michael's Playhouse.

Rev. Paulin is an extraordinary person. One flash of those warm, "sparkling eyes," and you know you've made a friend.

As an individual who has contributed much time and energy to the enrichment of education at St. Michael's, Rev. Paulin is remembered fondly by students long after graduation. In gratitude for his enthusiasm and love, the Class of 1983 proudly dedicates this year's Hilltop to Rev. Leon Paulin.

Student Life

IN THE BEGINNING

B. Barton

B. Barton

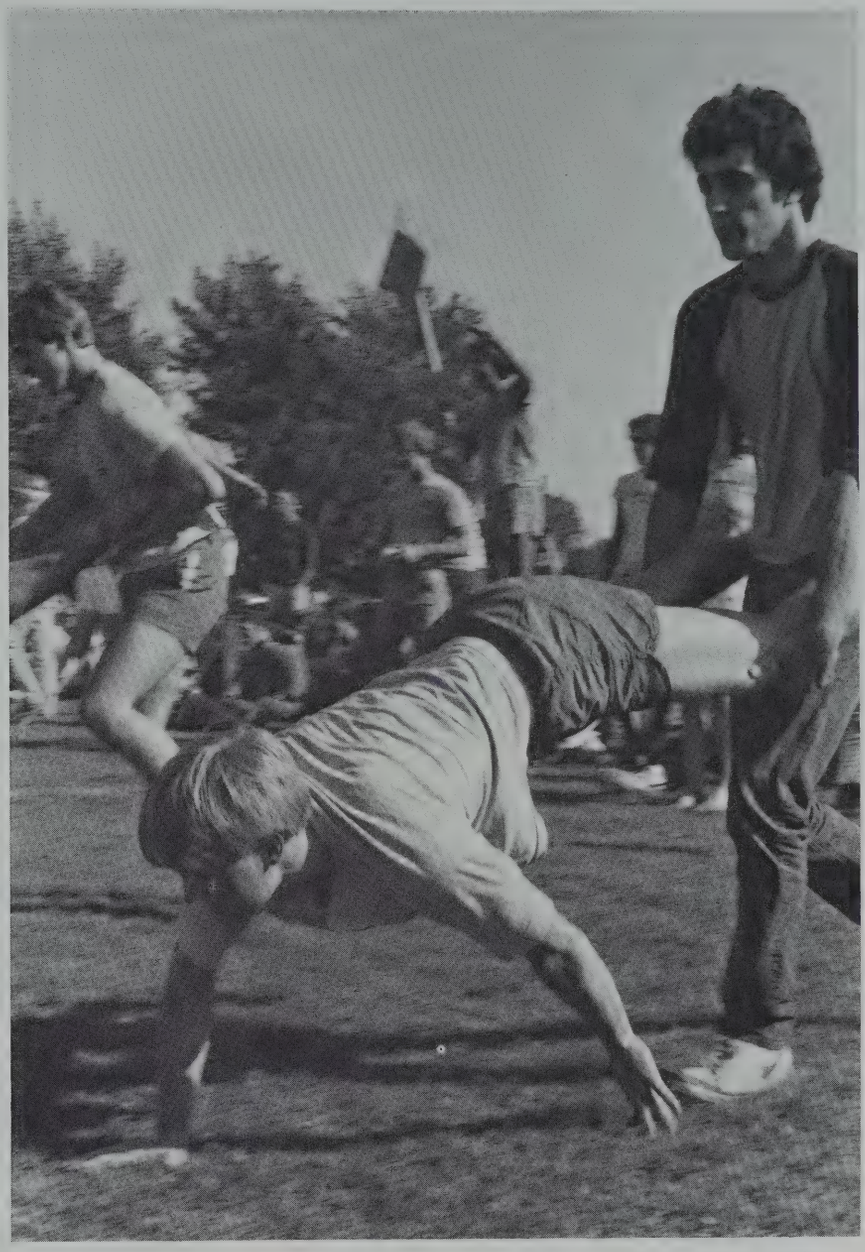

B. Barton

Early September has finally arrived and with it have come multitudes of anxious college freshmen and their equally nervous parents. The fun and excitement, as well as the trials and tribulations of college have begun.

It all begins with the moving in process. As you and your dad trudge up the stairs with a black trunk weighing at least ten tons, a zillion questions pop into your mind. What if my roommate thinks I'm weird? What if Joe is weird? What if . . . Oh well. You hesitantly approach the room and the door is wide open. Oh-oh, your roomie is already there! Gee, Sharon seems pretty nice after all. You even catch a glimpse of some beer in the fridge. Maybe this roommate thing isn't so bad after all. Maybe we'll even start to like each other.

Finally, you are comfortably settled in your 2 x 4 dorm room and it's time for mom and dad to depart. Mom wipes her eyes one last time while dad pretends to fix something on the car door, and then they're off! You're finally on your own. It's time to return to the dorm, find your roommate and begin orientation. Over the next few days you are so busy with activities designed to help you "adjust" to college life, you don't realize how much fun you're having. Suddenly, you've made lots and lots of new friends and even your roommate is cool. College isn't so bad after all!

HOMECOMING '82

Autumn's migration to the Hilltop was a rendezvous of reminiscence. Past met present for an Indian Summer weekend with shorts and polos the appropriate garb to participate in a vast array of social and athletic activities.

The Rathskeller served as a reference point for many alums, who'd amble in for a refreshing ale and speak of the past with their collegiate comrades. Saturday's road race set the big day off to a running start, and things continued to roll as the men's soccer team put on a fine display of athletic prowess, as they defeated Hawthorne College in convincing fashion, 5-0.

As the sun set behind the Adirondacks, homecomers doffed their daytime duds and donned their evening attire for a night of cocktails and cavorting in the North Campus Gym, preceded perhaps by a culinary excursion to any of the fine eateries around the Queen City.

Sunday fell nothing short of sunny perfection, as ardent spectators saw a spry squad of Purple Knights take on alumni booters in the Alumni/Varsity Soccer match on the north campus field.

At 11 a.m., the knell of the newly installed carillon system (a generous gift from the Class of 1982) called students, faculty and alumni to the chapel for a spiritual celebration. Afterwards the fair weather brought impromptu gatherings around campus, as friends bade farewell to one another and to Homecoming '82.

Sunshine Brightens Winter Wildness

It was bright and sunny — the kind of day when all you want to do is stand around in the snow and have fun. It was just the kind of day they were having at St. Michael's. I'd heard about their Winter Weekend. Even when it was held on the mountain, I'd heard about it. I hear about everything. It's my job.

I heard they were putting the P-Day field to use again, so I decided to go down there and investigate. I had to go incognito — I didn't want a student to recognize me and blow my cover. I disguised myself as a sleigh driver and went down. What I saw was beyond anything my imagination could have dreamed up.

The sun reflected off the snow, and it was difficult to make out little more than silhouettes against the backdrop of Old Sol. Despite the warmth of the sun, there was a crispness in the air — a crispness that was made less sharp by the bonfire in the middle of the field. Beyond the blaze, there was a snowmobile making its way around the field not once, but several times. There were people sliding down the hill on huge inner tubes; there were people having snowball fights; there were people standing around and having a good time. All in the name of preserving "wild life."

As reluctant as I was to leave this place, I had to. My job was finished. I had turned up nothing but a bunch of people having fun. As I drove off, I heard the crackling of the fire and the laughter of the people. I sighed. I was going to miss this great fun.

Signed,
Paul Day, Private Eye

The College Bowl: a great way to find out just how much you don't know.

This year's competition saw a total of 19 teams competing for the first place honors and a trip to the regionals held in Worcester, Ma.

As Jennie Cernosia expertly dictated questions and operated the official College Bowl game console, complete with buzzers and little red lights, contestants listened to the audience answer more questions than they did.

As the doule elimination tournament wound down, the competition intensified. Both the Rebels and Gang Green were eliminated from the winner's bracket by the Executives.

Heading off against each other in the loser's bracket, Gang Green was overcome by the Rebels, led by Owen McGowan.

The final match saw the Rebels against the Executives. The Rebels needed two wins to the Executives' one for the championship. The questions got tougher and scores were low, even the audience was stumped at many a turn.

After two close matches, the Rebels succeeded in throwing out the Executives for first place and a trip to the regionals to find out just how much more they didn't know. Congratulations Rebels!

Dancing For A Worthy Cause

Photos by B. Lyons

Once again students from area high schools and St. Michael's joined together to dance in the annual Multiple Sclerosis Dance Marathon at the Ross Sports Center.

The dancers were able to raise more than $30,000, making the 49-hour event a big success for the ninth consecutive year.

Entertainment was provided by John Nichols and The Music Machine in an effort to keep the participants dancing.

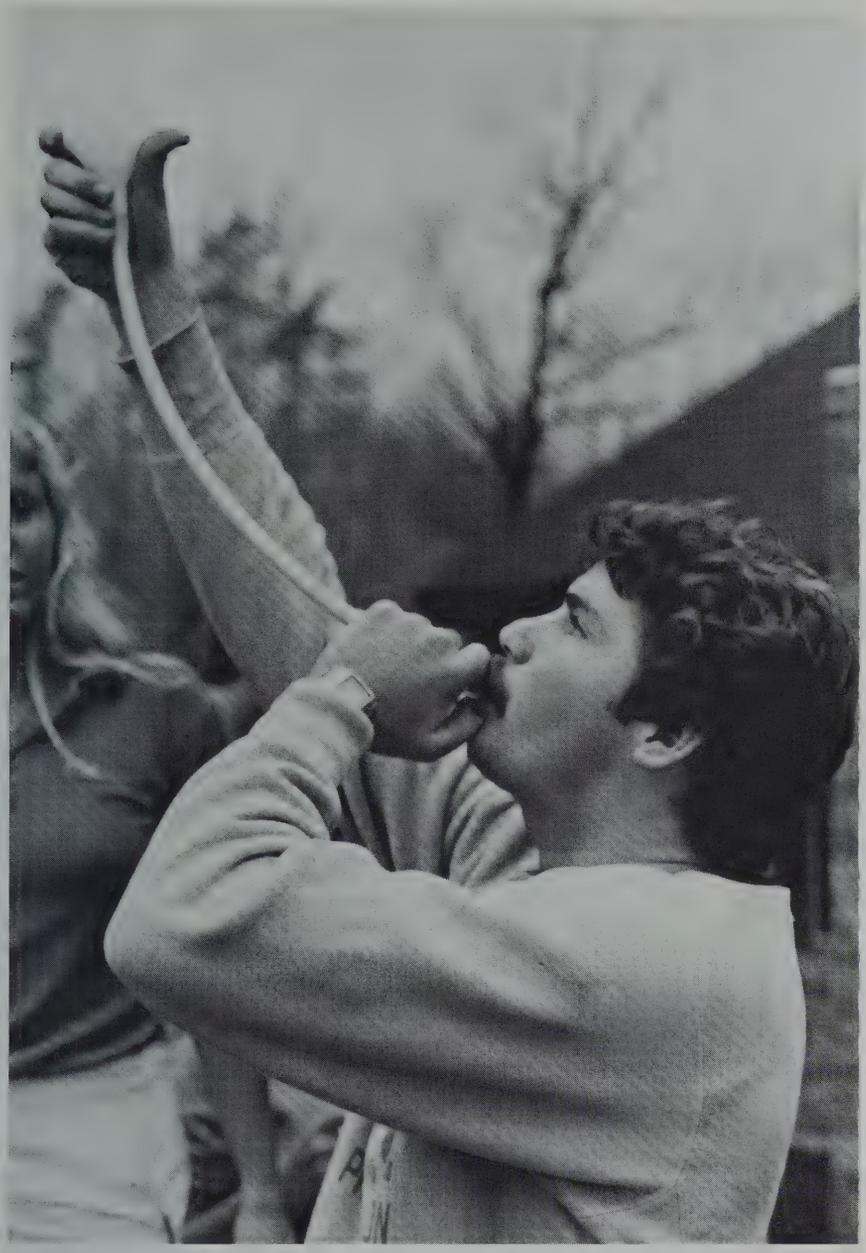

The marathon, held the weekend of March 18-20, was sponsored by the Crown and Sword Society.

The event proved to be as exhausting as it was fun, but the dancers didn't seem to mind. Afterall, it was for a most worthy cause.

Parent's Weekend Or Winter Weekend?

Parents and students alike were caught off-guard by Mother Nature's unexpected "gift" of all that white stuff during Parent's Weekend held in April.

Although the snow was a bit cumbersome, the multitude of events went on as planned.

The fine arts department kept parents entertained with performances by members of the Chorale and the Wind and Jazz Ensemble. A series of one-act plays were performed and directed by students for the parent's enjoyment.

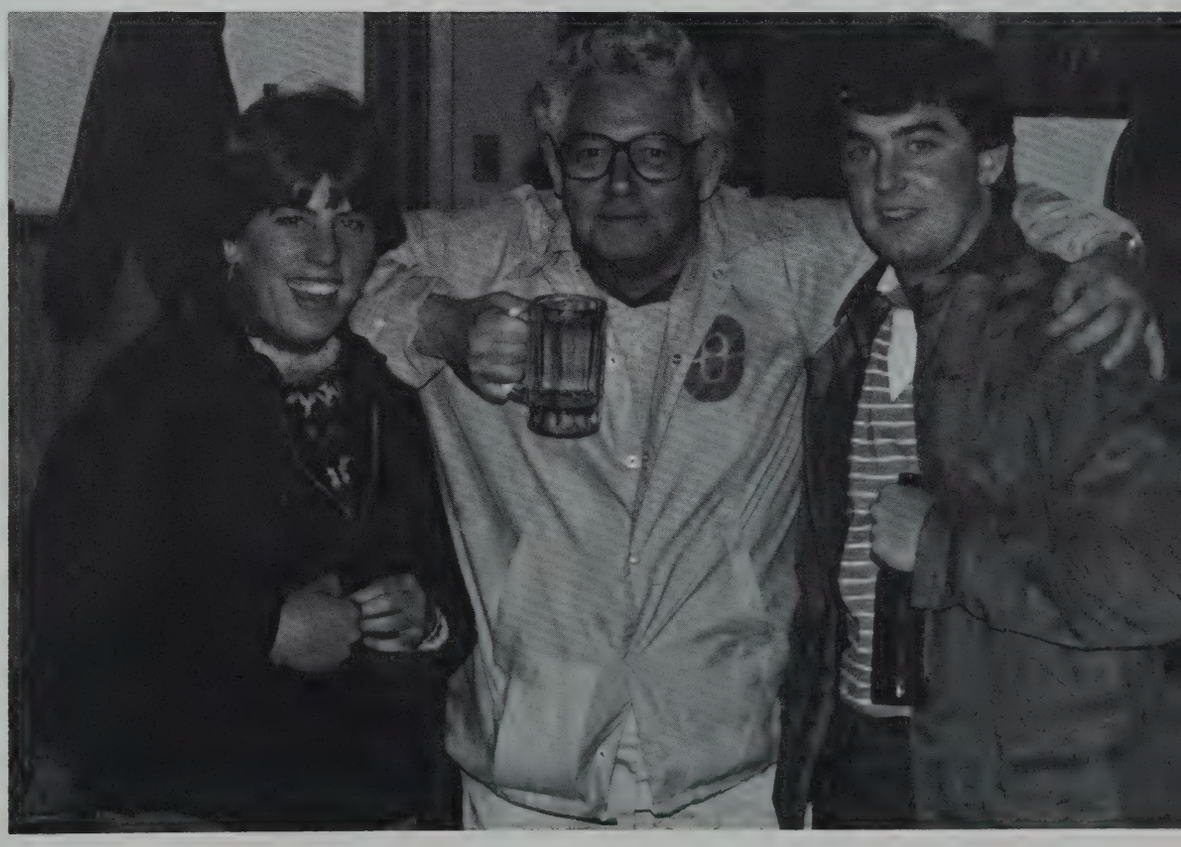

The diverse choice of events made the decision of which to do first a difficult one. The site of many activities was Alliot Hall, which hosted a crafts fair, caricature artist, college bowl contest and an open house at the Rathskeller.

The students, of course, didn't get left out. All they had to do was tag along with Mom and Dad and await the inevitable visit to a fine restaurant or the banquet at Ross for a "real meal."

After sundown, the parents donned their dancing shoes for a fun night full of good conversation, laughter and music at either the Jazz Soiree or the dance at North Campus Gym.

Sunday saw the end of another Parent's Weekend . . . or was it Winter Weekend??

"The fields were full of dancing, full of singing and romancing, the music never stopped."

So it seemed. P-Day, that long-awaited experience which takes the student beyond the parameters of social convention and into a world of the illogical and abstract, has been permanently etched in the archives of modern-day history. P-Day is the time of preparation, normally held the last weekend before exam week begins. It provides the student with a final opportunity for nonacademic self-expression.

The 1983 springtime ritual was kicked off with a innovative, sporty, and indeed outrageous obstacle course, followed by the sort of sporting event which draws throngs of media and gaggles of cocktail-toting spectators who thrive on high-speed, action-packed, risk-your-life-type trike racing: the Rotunda 25 Tricycle Race. This year's grand prix attracted such world-class competitors as the Archangels, the SMC Foxes, and yes, even the Little Rascals.

Friday evening, Marble Island proved to be the mecca of fashion, finesse and fun, as the well-clad couples cut the rug in time to the tunes of Down Town, a booming band from Beantown. If prefabricated frolicking was their preference, a live DJ kept them stomping to popular party vinyl. The Marble Island ambience had every couple basking in an aura of social glitter.

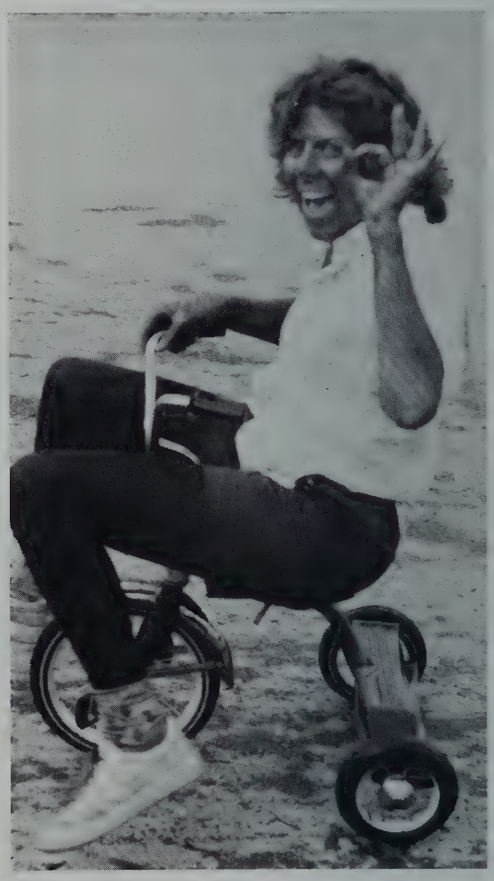

Due to a meterological mishap, (a late-season snowfall, that is), Saturday's extravaganza was moved to the asphalt meadows behind Ryan Hall and beneath the sunny skies of northern Vermont. Swillers poured libations and kicked their heels to the high-riled rock of the Nighthawks, followed by the unbeatable rythm and blues of NRBQ.

Party endurance is a key asset on P-Day, and those possessing it were able to press on through the evening's affairs, like the wild "roast" at 92 College Parkway.

Sunday's monsoon rains cancelled the appearance of Ictus, a truly talented jazz band; a blessing in disguise, perhaps, as students had the day to recover lost sanity prior to final's week.

Strolling

The spring has come unwillingly again
to this familiar place.
For more than three years
here I have noticed how the ground thaws
from white to soggy brown and then yields
to my short stride.
I walk quickly
so as not to sink
in the softening mud
of the new season
struggling, still grey.

Again I thought winter was finished, but recognized its struggle to stay,
leaving wet snow.
I think it is that way
with the seasons,
they try to give us more than we think we really need.
I now know for certain that this place-
Vermont, has its own rhythm, and only when the time is exactly as it should be,

will the buds shed
their crimson shells;
and we will be allowed to move on, change
our clothes and continue to observe the resiliency of spring
as we walk.

Edward L. Henry, President

Dear Seniors:

To whom much is given, much is expected. You are an elite in the good sense of the word — carefully selected several years ago as part of an entering class and privileged to receive a type of education as old as the Greek Academy, one designed to produce responsible citizens and good leaders.

It is also a mixed blessing — as all leadership responsibilities are — for you have been given insights into what the "good life" should be and you will throughout your career be nagged by the contrast between the models you have built here and the defective ones in the life you are about to enter.

Leaders are troubled consistently by this contrast and will seek to remedy it in some way. The successful leader will understand that the world can be made more perfect but not perfect and that the end result of trying, nevertheless, is improvement for others and growth for one's self.

H. G. Wells has said that civilization is in a race between education and catastrophe. Let us hope that what you have received here at Saint Michael's will ward off the unacceptable alternative to your models.

Sincerely,

Edward L. Henry

Promising Future For Stickwomen

The field hockey team had some high expectations to live up to. The squad finished 9-4 in 1981 and came into the 1982 year nationally ranked in some pre-season publications. But it just didn't happen.

The team had a fairly successful season under first-year mentor Kathy O'Neil. "The Grapes" finished with a 6-7 slate and hopes for an even better mark in 1983 after compensating for the loss of co-captains Bridget Lyons and Nancy O'Shea, both seniors.

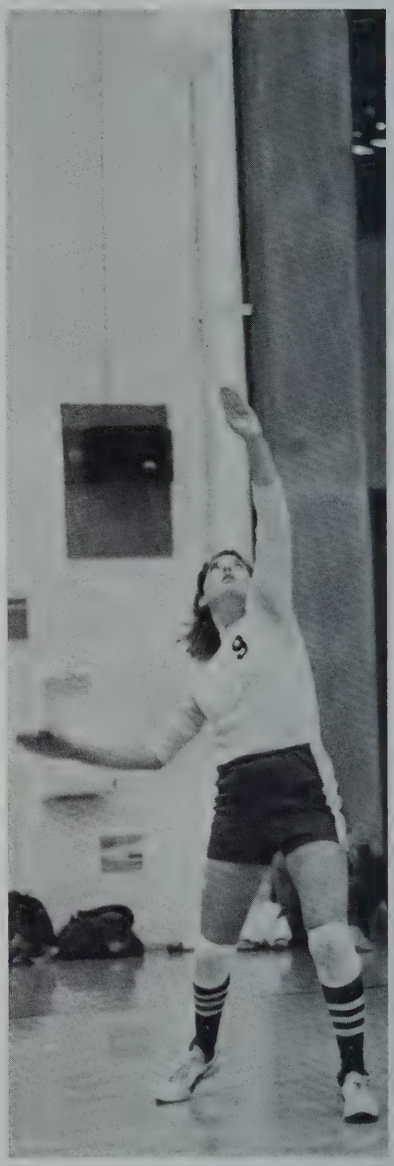

Top goal scorer was Janet Scanlon with 11. Lyons added seven tallies and Lynn Taplin and Lisa Luedeke notched six apiece. The defense was led by Dawn Taylor, O'Shea and the club's most valuable player, Paula Roche. In the net, Kim McCormack, Maureen Larkin and Alison Lote, the most improved player on the team, allowed only 20 goals in 13 contests.

Volleyballers Spike Their Punch

Photos by B. Lyons

The volleyball team posted its best record in the three-year history of the sport at St. Michael's under Coach Leslie Brenker. The club was led by co-captains Lee LaFrance, a senior, and Robin Kelley, a junior.

Despite a short season, the team won nine matches while dropping only three. This was a marked improvement over the 5-9 slate posted the previous year. The 1983-84 squad will have many returning players, including Kathy-Jean Martin, the club's most valuable player, Diane Stockton and Diane DeSantis.

The team will be looking to face some tougher competition in the future if the quality of the program continues to improve at the rate it has in the first three years as a varsity squad. With the number of experienced players returning next year, the improvement in the volleyball team may continue in leaps and bounds.

Golfers Improve With Every Stroke

In just about every tournament, the 1982 edition of the golf team managed to shoot better than it had in previous years. Ernie Guilmain's golfers lost to University of Vermont by only eight strokes, some 39 shots better than in 1981.

The squad finished fifth in the nine-team Plymouth State Tournament. St. Michael's finished third in the four-team state championship.

However, the most impressive showing may have been at the New England Tournament. St. Michael's finished three positions better than the previous season, but more dramatically, picked up 152 strokes.

Rugby Wins Big

The 1982-83 rugby team was more successful on the field than off. Although not officially recognized by the college, the team posted one of the best records at St. Michael's, finishing 5-1-1 in the fall and 2-1 in the spring.

The most impressive fall victory was against Norwich University. St. Michael's managed to trounce their opponents 28-4.

On a snowy, muddy field Parent's Weekend, the squad defeated Holy Cross by a whopping 24-0.

The team grew in number, from 18 to 28, allowing the Purple Knights to field both A and B squads.

The men's soccer team had a rough time of things in search of its first above .500 season in a decade, finishing with a 4-8 record in 1982.

The squad's main problem was putting the ball in the net. The offense had to weather a tough break when senior co-captain Paul Kenney was injured. Despite being hobbled with a leg injury for much of the year, Kenney led the club in goals (4) and was second on the team in points behind Azagoh St. Ambroise.

The other captain, Mike Flaherty, and fellow senior T.C. Meyer, a second team All New England selection, controlled midfield with strong play at their halfback positions. Rusty Miller withstood a multitude of opposition shots to post a 2.35 goals against the average.

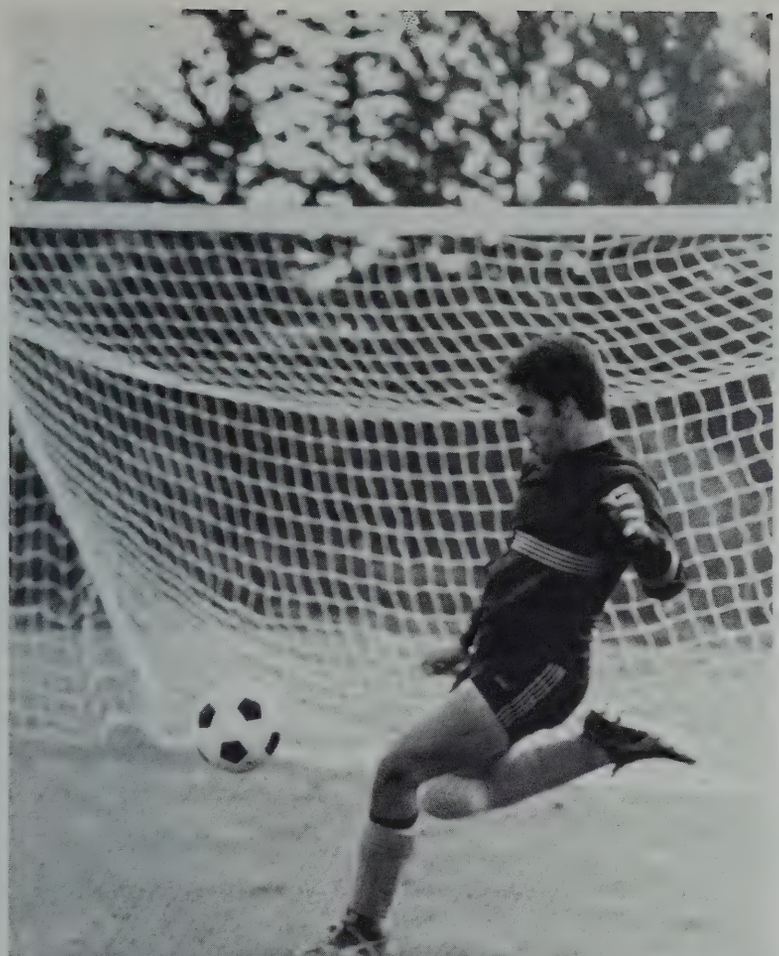

St. Michael's will have a new coach in the 1983 season to replace Ben McDivitt, who will give his full attention to the ski team. The Knights will also get a chance to play on the newly resodded field after a year in exile on the mogulridden north campus field.

With these factors, along with a strong troupe of returning players, St. Michael's will again try in 1983 to break above the .500 barrier.

COACH: AL FLORY

The initial VARSITY season for the women's soccer team ended with a 4-6 record that easily could have been 6-4 as the squad dropped two tough overtime defeats to a pair of strong clubs.

A goal of first-year coach Al Flory was to play defense-oriented soccer. St. Michael's defense was anchored by junior netminder Sue Chambers, recipient of the Coaches Award for leadership and motivation. She averaged 17.3 saves per game.

Another defensive stallworth was Marci Manion, the most valuable player at that position. The offensive player of the year was Pam Melcher, who scored 14 goals.

Only one player will be lost to graduation, but the loss will be costly. Darcy Gallucio, tri-captain along with Manion and Melcher, was one of the team's most effective offensive weapons.

The young varsity team showed continual improvement as the season progressed. The booters will try to continue their forward momentum in the coming year when they face an expanded schedule.

Tennis Players Serve It Up

The men's tennis team put together a 4-4 record while the women's squad did a quick one-year about face following a disasterous 1981 season.

Nick Clary's men's team was paced by seniors Steve Knapp and Tim Walsh, the number one and two singles players, and top doubles tandem. Hitoshi Fujiwara again held down the number three slot.

Steve Antrim's women's club made a comeback after its 1-7 slate under Tom Obbagy the previous year. Antrim's troupe compiled a 6-4 in his first year at the helm.

Both teams will probably return even stronger in the upcoming seasons. Awaiting the arrival of a new coach, the women's team will be relying on Fiona McCaul and Kathy McNabb to get things started.

Scot Cameron, Steve Guilmain, Scott Morris and Bob Greco will set the pace for the men's squad.

Harriers On Road To Success

The cross-country teams, under the direction of Zaf Bludevich and Rick Cleary, completed one of their most successful years ever in 1982 with a combined record of 14-8.

The men's squad compiled an 11-3 slate. The harriers were led by Whitney McBride. Gerry Gray, John Fournier, Chris Zacharer, Tim Driscoll and Bob Cartelli all performed well.

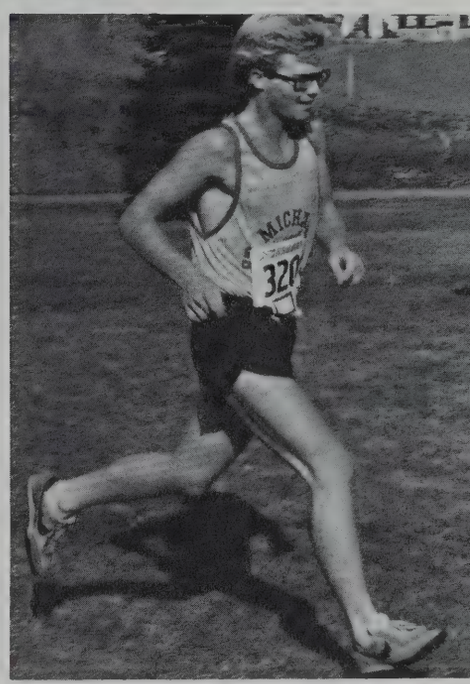

St. Michael's women's club finished at 3-5. But the season did mark the first time the women had ever beaten runners from another four-year college. Becky Munn, a senior, was the top female harrier. Ann Marie McGovern, Tracey Romano, Britt Fitzgerald, Maggie Diederich and Michele Brisson also had good seasons.

Both Cleary and Bludevich hope to keep the runners on the road of good fortune in the future.

Ups -N- Downs

The men's basketball team ended a tumultuous season with a 12-15 record. Predictions of a 20-win year went the way of penny candy. The Purple Knights just never could get untracked at home and compiled a 3-9 slate in the supposedly cozy confines of the Ross Sports Center. Following the last home defeat, coach Steve Antrim resigned.

The 1982- 83 season closed the careers of Steve Bourke and co-captain Jerry Mizerak. Bourke ended up in sixth place in St. Michael's career scoring with 1,455 points. Mizerak was hurt for much of the season. Mike Mandell and Joel May also played their last game in the purple and gold.

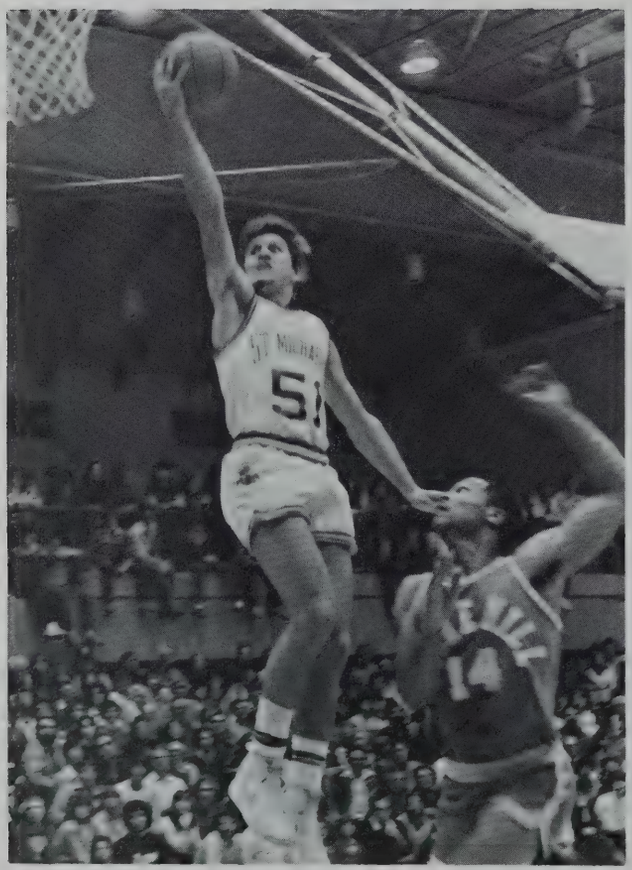

Jim McCaffrey's play was undoubtedly the highlight of the disappointing year. McCaffrey led the team in scoring (21 points per game), assists (5.4 an outing) and free throws percentage (.836). When teamed with Bob Millikin, who again played heady basketball all year long, St. Michael's boasted one of the better backcourts in New England Division II play.

Two more players expected to return to Colchester to play for new coach James Casciano are Nebraska's Twin Towers, Dave MacFarlane and Don Mailliard. MacFarlane played steady ball throughout the long season, and Mailliard got a chance to throw his weight around under the hoop as the year progressed.

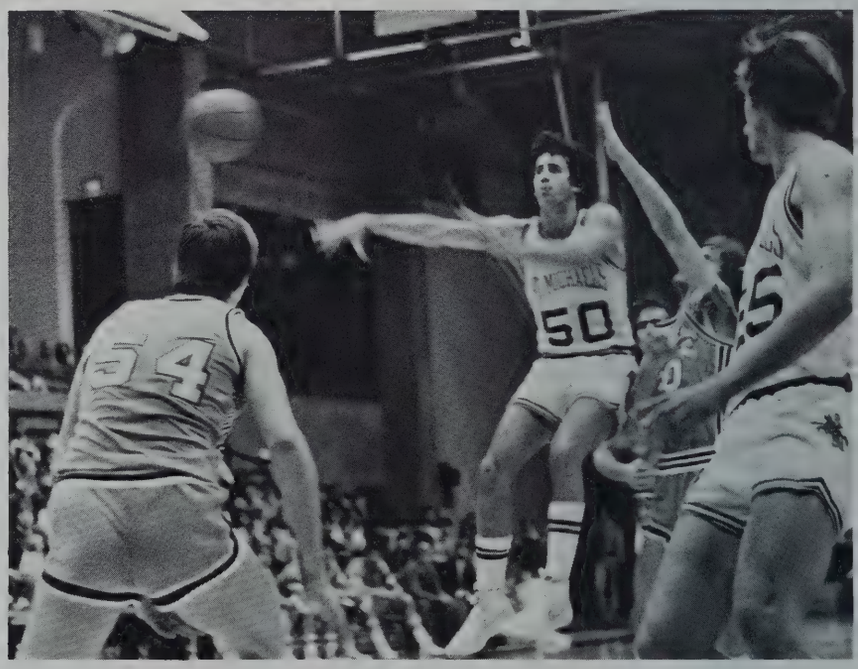

Casciano will have some work in front of him to pull the Knights back to the fore of N.E. Division II hoop. However, if the talent that was there in 1982-83 remains intact (only one starter has used up his eligibility), Casciano may be able to turn the jeers into cheers at Ross.

Women's Hoop Rebounds With Success

The women's basketball team rebounded from a 9-12 record year to put together a 16-10 slate during the 1982-83 season.

St. Michael's, under the direction of coach Sue Duprat, was struggling at the halfway point of the schedule. Then the squad ran off an eight-game winning streak that, for a time, put the club in contention for an ECAC playoff bid.

The young team's success came because it beat the opponents it was supposed to beat. St. Michael's was 9-2 in the friendly confines of the Ross Sports Center. The purple and gold suffered only one loss to a Division III team in 10 meetings against those schools.

Second-year guard Pam Batalis led all scorers with a 13.8 average. She was followed by fellow sophomores Becky Bouchard and Margaret Lynch. Duprat used her deep bench superbly, as any one of the 10 players were consistently shuffled into the lineup in different situations.

Duprat has done a very good job of recruiting during the last few years. This has left her with a team that loses only two seniors from this year's team, co-captain Terri O'Neil and Nancy Lubinsky.

After much clamor to make the sport varsity, the hockey team completed its first season against a tough Division III schedule with a 5-13 slate.

The Knights faced established Division III squads such as Stonehill, Worcester State, Framingham State, Assumption and Division II Middlebury. Most of the time, St. Michael's had to meet the opposition on the road. The purple and gold had only five games on home ice.

Rookie coach Lou DiMasi quickly threw himself into helping to develop the program at St. Michael's with a great amount of hard work. Thanks to the coach's long hours, his team had a practice rink for workouts behind Ross and a booster club. The squad's last home game was broadcast on radio station WVMT, a privilege usually reserved for the men's hoop team.

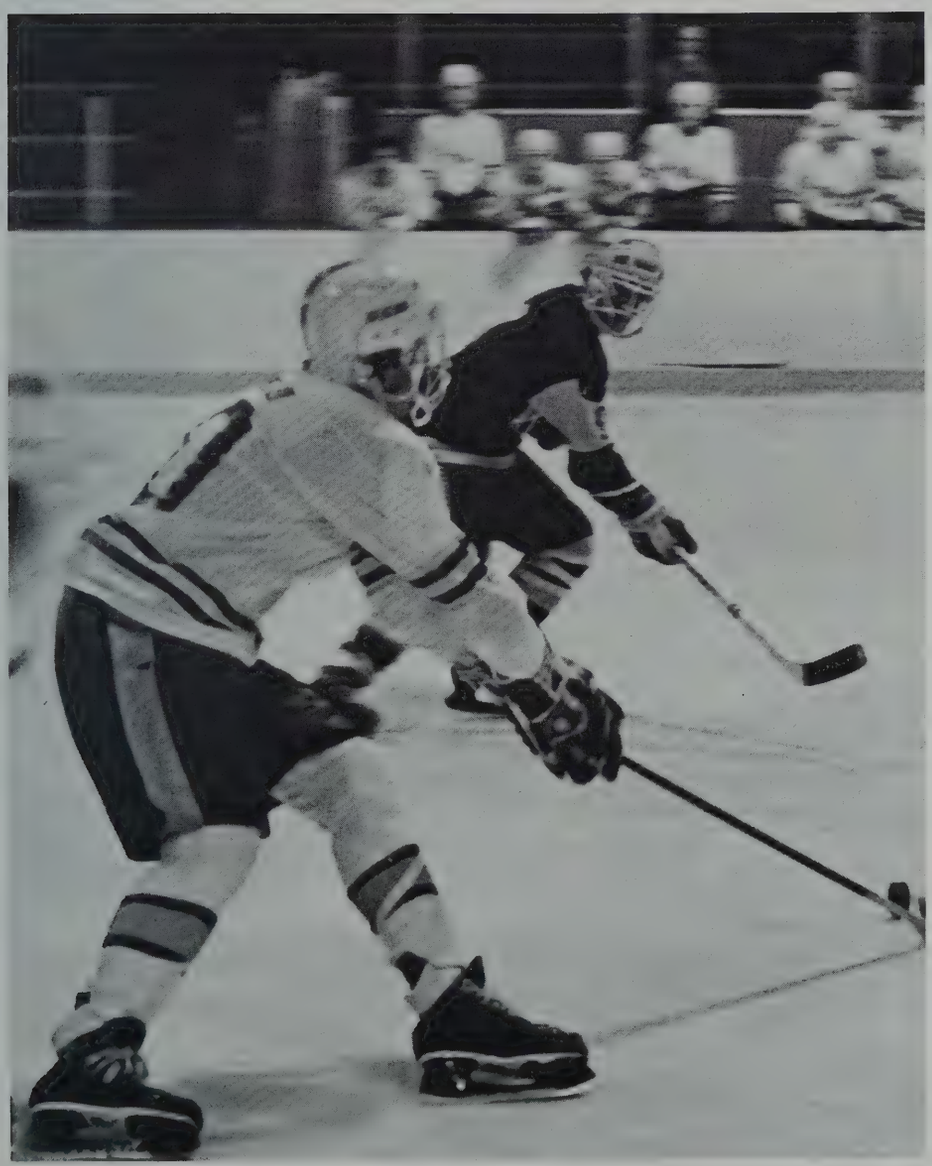

On the ice, the Knights were led by the goal-a-game line of Bob Berno, John Cunningham and Dennis Kelly. Co-captains Greg Manning and Billy Kerig also provided leadership.

The Purple Knights lose only four players to graduation. Following the inaugural varsity season, DiMasi had more than 100 high school players interested in playing at St. Michael's. With these young recruits added to a team with a full year of varsity experience under its belt, St. Michael's will hope to make a bigger dent in Division III play next season.

The Thrill Of Victory

It took a while before the snow finally fell in the winter of 1982-83, but when it did, it made one group of individuals extremely happy. Those people were the members of the ski team.

At the New England Division II championships, the women skiers captured first place and the men took third. The women's performance meant the squad could compete in the ECAC Division I championships.

Anne Stange was the top skier for St. Michael's. Stange's efforts in the championships qualified her to compete in the nationals in Bozeman, Mont. Stange managed to finish 40th, picking up three team points in the NCAA competition for the college.

The ski teams had a tremendous impact on the competition in the New England area in their first varsity year. Rob Best and Jim Hansen were named to the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association's All-New England first team. Dan Heney and Rob Allen were picked for the second team Stange topped the list of women honored. Mandy Donaldson was also a first team selection. Lynda Dunn, Mary Clare Cooper and Lisa Luedeke were chosen for the second team.

If the initial varsity ski campaign is any indication of what is in the future for the sport at St. Michael's, the Purple Knights may be a force to be reckoned with for many years to come.

Star Swimmers Set New Records

Both the men's and women's swim teams had disappointing seasons, with the men ending at 1-9 and the women compiling a 2-7-1 slate.

Only co-captain Jay Lenox will graduate from the men's squad. Lenox helped break the school record in the 4x100 yard relay, along with co-captain Larry Boisvert, Craig Charlton and John Vertin.

Charlton also broke the 100-yard backstroke record. Ed Senier set a new mark in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The women's squad also had a record-breaking performer in Karen Dunmire. Dunmire set new standards in the 50-and 100-yard breaststroke events.

Dunmire's performance qualified her for the New England swimming and diving championships. The Knights also had a trio of divers in the New England meet. Bob Toner, Luke Dougherty and Sue Judge all competed at the event thanks to their performances throughout the year.

Women's Lacrosse Gets Tough Breaks

Todd Wadworth's women's lacrosse team faced an abbreviated schedule and a couple close defeats in its premiere year as a varsity sport.

St. Michael's closed its initial season with a 1-4 record that easily could have been reversed. The Purple and Gold's lone victory was a 12-4 thrashing of Castleton State.

The squad lost its opener to Middlebury's 'B' team by three. From there, St. Michael's lost a squeaker to Clarkson and a 10-8 heartbreaker to New England College.

Co-captains Bridget Lyons and Marybeth Saber will be missing from next year's club, along with Sue Rietano. Wadsworth will be hoping for a lot of good play from his returning athletes to turn the close losses into victories in 1984.

Men's Lax Seeks More Victories

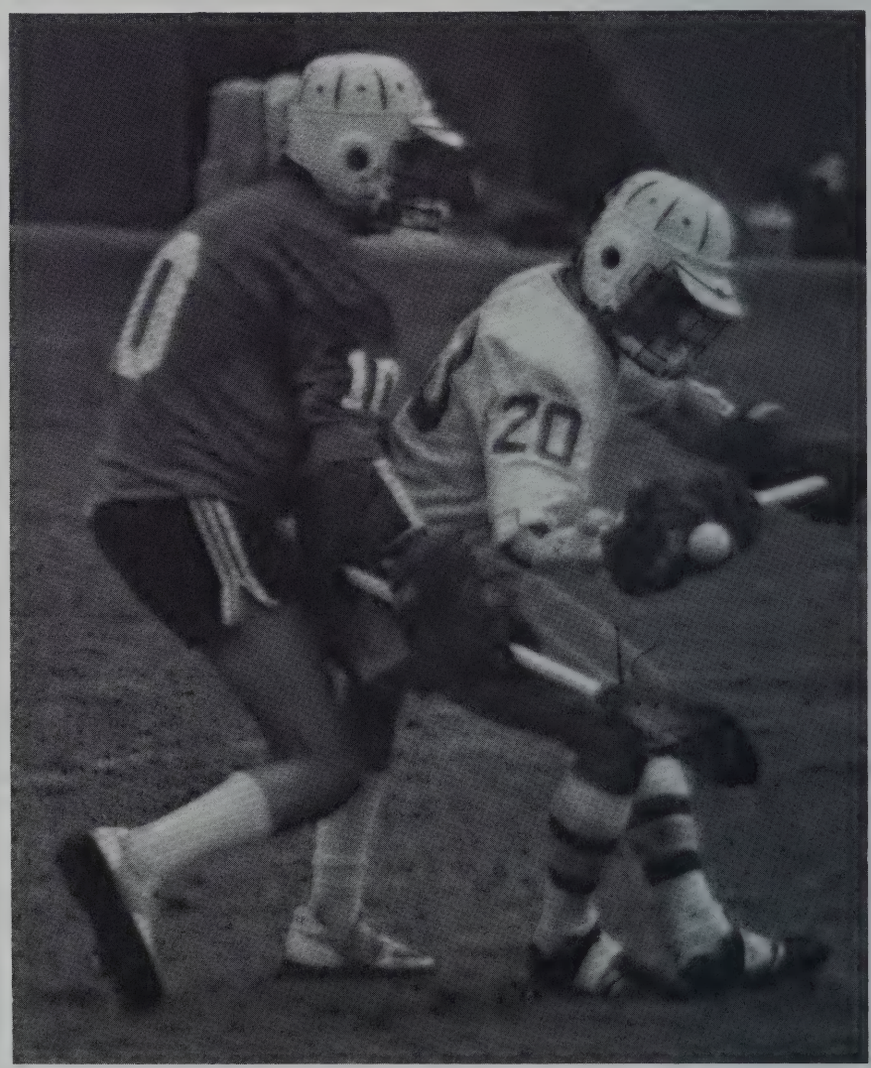

The men's lacrosse squad finished with a 3-7 slate in its first season as a varsity sport. That record is just one game below how St. Michael's fared as a club team in 1982.

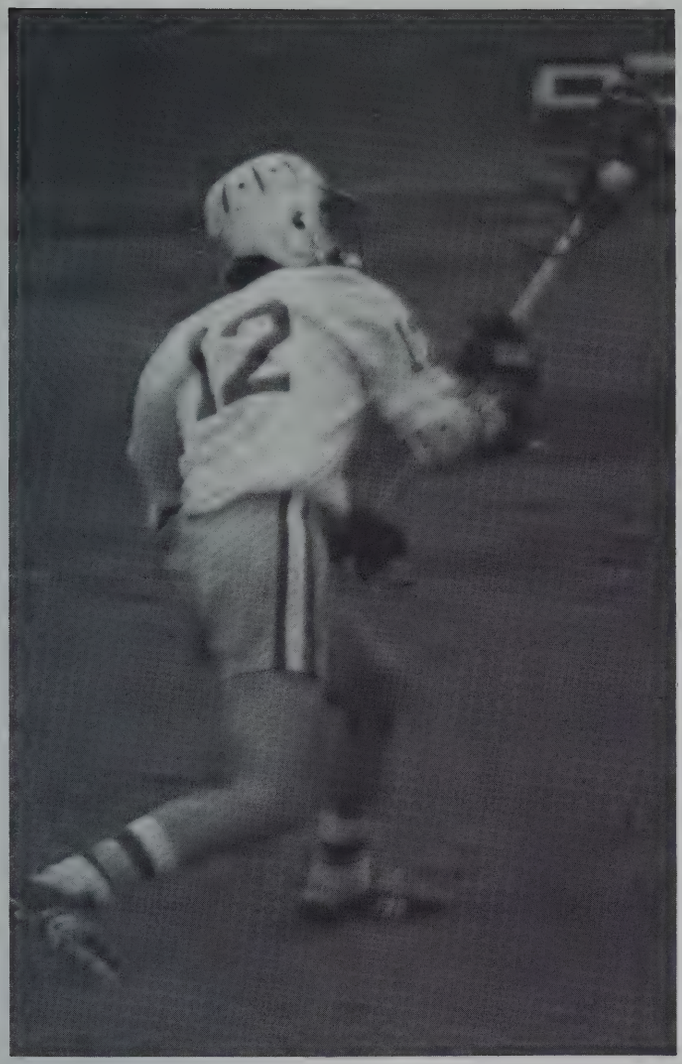

One of the high points for the Purple Knights may have come in an opening game loss to UMass/Boston. The 5-3 defeat St. Michael's suffered to UMB came at the hands of the fourth-ranked New England small college team.

After a slow start, the Knights finished the season with wins in three of their last five games, including a big victory over Lyndon State and a hard-fought 5-4 win over Castleton State.

St. Michael's loses five players to graduation. Senior co-captain midfielders Scott Prouty and Mike Arsenault leave, along with Tom Brown, Chris Cummins and Joe Flannery.

While these players will be missed, head coach Jeff Culkin can expect some of the slack to be taken up by the more than 20 recruits the mentor had looking at St. Michael's. When the newcomers are teamed with the returnees, Culkin will probably look forward to more successful days in St. Michael's varsity lacrosse future.

Student Association

The 1983 edition of the Student Association led the way to diminishing the barrier existing between the sheltered life of college and the "rat race" of the outside world.

Former President Greg Kaknes got the move toward social awareness rolling and his successor John Egan has kept it alive. A social awareness committee was organized with an intent to promote awareness of such pressing issues as acid rain, nuclear disarmament, draft registration and the tuition hike dilemma.

St. Michael's students were given opportunities to learn, discuss and react to the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J. who spoke in McCarthy on "Beyond the Nuclear Freeze."

A second Student Aid Awareness Day was held in the Rathskeller this year. Students were asked to contact their representatives in Congress. Unfortunately, the student participation was not overwhelming. Perhaps the student population at St. Michael's is not ready to leave their sheltered surroundings. Maybe next year . . .

Pappy's Fire And Rescue Squad

When the radio scanner sounds off its tones, members of the Fire and Rescue Squad take to the open road via any nearby exit in order to put out a house fire or administer first aid to an accident victim. Such dedication is to be highly commended.

Student members volunteer their time and skills to helping those in need. Each member must go through extensive training programs, which are designed to prepare students to react with responsibility and speed in any emergency situation.

Since its beginnings in 1969, the department, under the personal guidance of Don Sutton, has grown to become a valuable source of aid to St. Michael's and neighboring communities.

The department consists of two units-fire and rescue-which work together in many local emergencies. To this date, the fire squad has responded to more than 140 calls as a part of the Colchester Center Volunteer Fire Company.

The rescue unit responded to about 1,137 emergency calls, 70 of which involved the transport of premature infants. St. Michael's is leading the way in the expansion of this state program. Wtih the addition of the new, fully equipped ambulance to the department, St. Michael's will be able to make much more of a contribution to surrounding communities.

Crown And Sword

B. Lyons

An organization that has made many contributions to the Saint Michael's College community, the Crown and Sword Society is dedicated to providing services to surrounding communities as well. The Crown and Sword Society was founded in 1957 when students became aware of the need for an on-campus key club. Since then, the organization has continued to assert its importance by sponsoring sing-alongs and parties for the elderly at the Green Mountain Nursing Home, as well as through active involvement in such significant events as Homecoming Weekend, Parent's Weekend, the M.S. Dance Marathon and Graduation. Crown and Sword is surely a useful tool in the implementation of service in an age dominated by self-concern, hence Saint Michael's College is duly proud of such a worthy group.

WWPV Lucks Out In '83

This was to be the year that WWPV would become a full-fledged radio station. The staff was optimistic about the future of WWPV. Plans to air a half-hour news show was in the works, along with a variety of format changes. On Feb. 28, everyone listened with eager anticipation as the station began to broadcast at its new 100-watt power.

But within two short days, the station had to shut-down because of a defective transmitter. General Manager Brian Kehoe and the entire student body waited patiently. Afterall, the transition from 10 watts to 100 watts was a complex one.

The radio station was plagued with delays from the beginning, so one more setback could be weathered relatively easy. Yet, in March the station went back on the air, only to shutdown after one day.

WWPV just couldn't get its act together in 1983. With a little luck, St. Michael's students will once again be able to enjoy their favorite tunes come 1983-84.

The Defender Improves With Style

The 1982-83 Defender, under the direction of Executive Editor Eileen Moran and Business Manager Karen Fenuccio, underwent some much-needed changes. Stories, like Mike Knott's article on tenure and Bernie Dagenais' article on the Hilltop funds, helped the paper gain a more investigative angle. The paper also installed several weekly columns: Healthful Hints by Kathy Guare, Good Diggin' by Mike Callaghan and Critics' Corner by Moran and Karen DeLorenzo.

Features took on a more creative angle, with profiles on faculty and administration members, historical pieces and hints on how to survive the winter or celebrate St. Patrick's Day. Timo McGillicuddy provided some insightful op-ed pieces, and the special senior section, which has appeared in the paper for the past two years, offered advice to students entering the "Real World."

The sports section, under the watchful eye of Callaghan and A. John Murphy, was the most improved. Callaghan got the section away from play-by-play reports on games and included more profiles, features and predictions.

Graphically, the paper was improved by Sue Langley's lively cartoons and graphics and by Fenuccio's and Charlie Smith's interesting ads.

However, despite these improvements, The Defender had planty of problems. Copy Editors Guare, Suzanne Dulude, Lisa Mulcahey and Pete Fraher would love to have a nickle for every article that came in past deadline and every time the typesetters made a mistake.

News Editor John Cotter deserves some recognition for all the pages he T-ed, and all the stale popcorn he ate. John Blake deserves an award for faithfully attending every layout and Moran would like to thank all the people who kept her from having a nervous breakdown.

Another problem the staff encountered was the loss of Richard Raquier, who served as the paper's adviser. Raquier, in what most journalism students considered a major blunder by the administration, was denied tenure and subsequently left his position as adviser. After a long and difficult search, Todd Wadsworth took over the job, which will perhaps put more of an emphasis on the business aspect of the paper.

The staff certainly shared some rough times, but they also shared the laughter, and to repeat the famous quote — "If they can't laugh at themselves, they're not worth anything!"

Sharing Of Themselves

This year marked the expansion of the Volunteer Services Program on campus.

Many more students found they enjoyed taking time out from their busy college lives to share conversation and laughs with others.

The Big Brother/Big Sister Program attracted 70 students, which is more than organizers have seen for about four years. Children and students met on equal terms and enjoyed each other's company at cookouts, sporting events, parties.

The Big Brother Program, although popular, is not the only organization sponsored by Volunteer Services. Students visited residents of the Green Mountain Nursing Home located at Fort Ethan Allen. Students and residents take turns entertaining each other with lively conversation, music and laughter. Students often help residents write to their grandchildren or read to those who cannot see.

Some students choose to participate in a volleyball or basketball game with inmates at the Chittenden County Correctional Center. It's up to the individual student to decide. The Volunteer Services Program, coordinated by Luan Giannone, offers something for everyone.

How fine it was to climb the slopes
and tumble down again.
The snow was light,
and deep, and clean,
and icicles hung from your hair.
From where we sat, among the trees,
the hills below us spread like a sparkling field of diamonds.
And, while we sat and watched the colours change,
we wondered how many times before they had changed.

Society For The Advancement Of Management

B. Lyons

Society for the Advancement of Management has been on the Saint Michael's campus for a total of three years. It is a student-run organization which prepares interested students with the experience and knowledge of the world of business-sometimes called, the "Real" world.

SAM has held various programs that have enabled students to meet with professionals on a more personal basis. A few of the more popular events sponsored by SAM included: "A Dress for Success" fashion show held at Le Club in nearby Winooski; a lecture by Robert Flanagan of Western Union titled "How to Finance a Growing Company in a Shrinking Economy;" and a discussion on "How to Find a Job" hosted by Dan Beards, a business consultant.

These programs provided students with a great opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of what the working world is all about. Students of all majors actively participated in the many instructive events organized by SAM members and officers.

Officers of the Society were: Meg Collins, president; Theresa Sheehan, vice president of programs; Leslie Whipple, vice president of membership; Mike Flaherty, treasurer and Chris LaRoche, secretary.

Outing Club Explores The Great Outdoors

The St. Michael's Outing Club offers an opportunity for students to experience hiking, camping, backpacking and x-country skiing. Trips include simple day hikes up Mount Mansfield and Camel's Hump and overnighters to the Adirondack, White and Vermont's Green mountains. Trips may last for extended periods of time, up to six days.

In the past two years, the club has ventured to Assateague Island in Virginia and Acadia National Park in Maine. Most of the camping trips take place in the fall and spring with x-country skiing in the winter. However, the group does offer winter camping trips in January and February for those who wish to brave the elements.

The Outing Club offers an alternative to the regular routine of college life. It's a great way to see the northern New England and experience the great outdoors.

St. Michael's Law Club serves as a forum for students who are interested in pursuing a career in law or other legal professions.

Membership is open to students of all concentrations, and as a result, members are from a variety of academic backgrounds.

Under the adviser Rev. Joseph McLaughlin, the club has sponsored several speakers on campus, including such professionals as lawyers, political figures and law enforcement officials.

The Law Club also helps prepare students for LSAT exams, and assists in providing internships in the legal field as another aspect of career orientation.

Chorale Sets Musical Pace

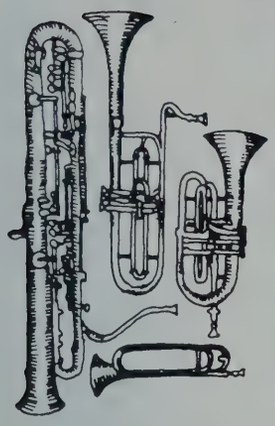

The St. Michael's Chorale, under the direction of Dr. William Tortolano, performs several times during each school year for the enjoyment of students and community residents alike. Although the group tends to concentrate on classical music, it also performs popular and sacred pieces.

This year, the Chorale gave an eloquent performance of The Messiah during the Christmas season before a jam-packed audience in the chapel.

Other concerts included such gala events as Homecoming and Parent's Weekend. Once again, the Chorale took their talented vocal cords to St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City as a focal point of their annual tour.

Wind And Jazz Ensembles Tune In To Success

B. Lyons

The St. Michael's Wind and Jazz Ensembles have enjoyed another musically successful year, not only in Vermont, but throughout the east as well.

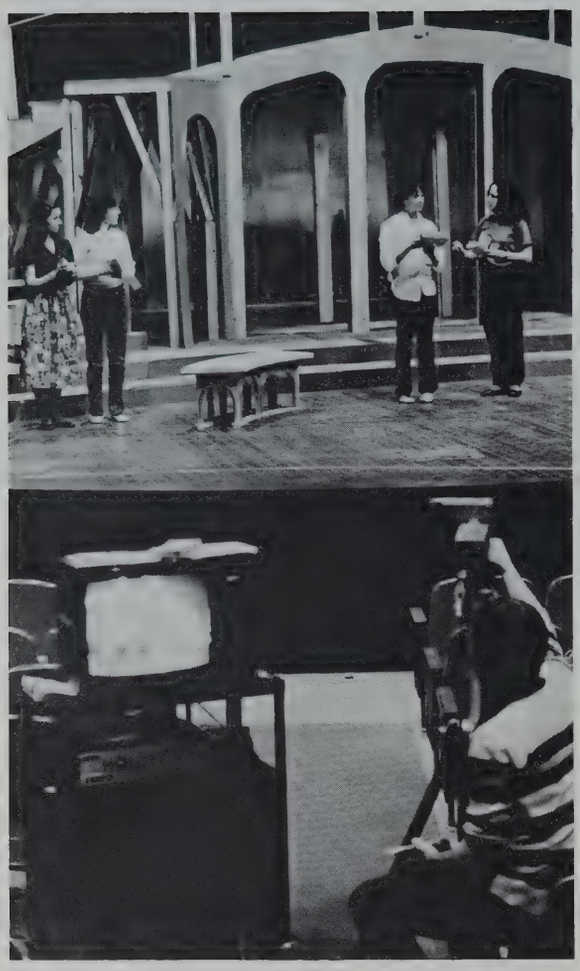

During the fall semester, a Homecoming tradition was carried on when the Wind and Jazz Ensembles performed for a capacity crowd in McCarthy. In December, the melodic sounds of the Wind Ensemble gracefully echoed throughout the chapel during a Sunday folk Mass.

The highlight of the year was a four-day tour that took place in March. While other tours have brought the groups to such locales as Maine, New Hampshire and Washington, D.C., this year's journey consisted of concerts in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Wind and Jazz performed at several high schools during the tour. Such concerts are a very important factor in the college recruitment process.

The finale of the trip was a performance at the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston, where family and friends, as well as alumni, turned out for the show. Drummer Chris Weber thrilled both audience and band members alike when he threw a drumstick up in the air and continued to play with his bare hand.

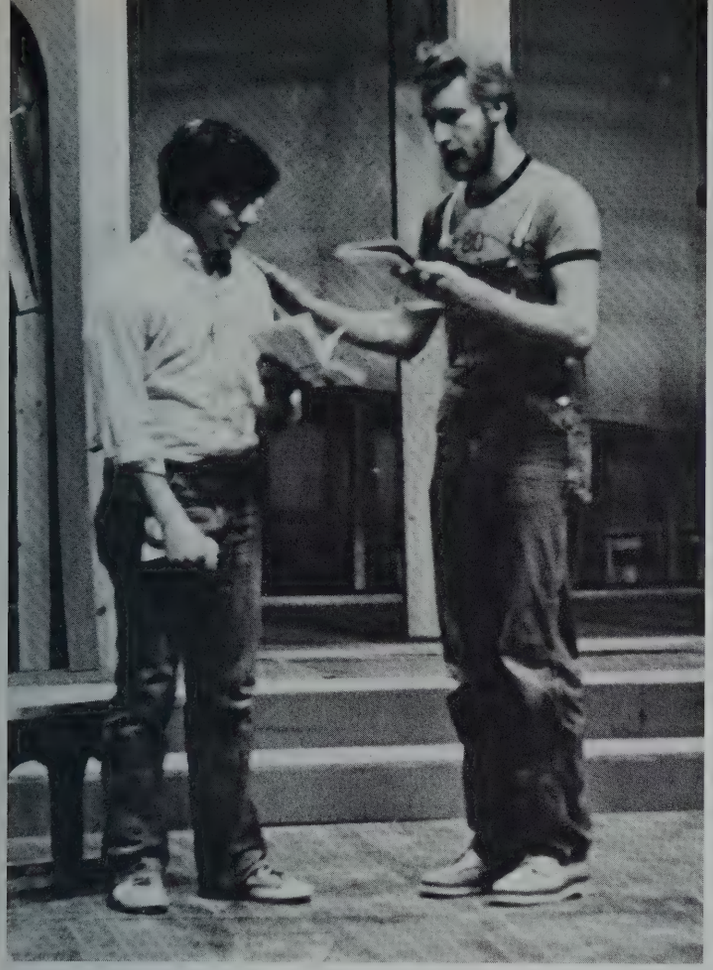

With a March campus concert and the annual Parent's Weekend gala closing out the year, the Wind and Jazz Ensembles prepare to do another number on us next year.

Potpourri

Long Ago Lady

There's a jewel in the heart of New England
Where the music I live by is born
She's a simple sweet tune for the asking and she's home . . .

For the love of Vermont, for the warmth of her hand
For the freedom she shares with the souls of the land
Where the gentle belong
Where to feel is to be strong
She's bestowed her song on us all.

She tells you to follow what feels right
Gives you reason to love what you are
She's allowed me to live by my music
And my heart.

Now, the tune smiths can sing there til their voices but whisper
And the poets can rhyme til the tides have no rhythm
And the potters can throw til the wheel of the world spins no more.

For the love of Vermont, for the warmth of her hand
For the freedom she shares with the souls of the land
Where the gentle belong
Where to feel is to be strong
She's bestowed her song on us all.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The following people deserve special thanks for their contribution and time given in making this yearbook as good as possible. Your help was greatly appreciated.

Mike Callaghan for all the sports write-ups. You were a big help Mike!
Andre LaChance for providing Mike with any information needed for the sports write-ups.
Jim Watson for the P-Day, Homecoming, ROTC, and Law Club write-ups.
Donna Monahan for the Winter Weekend write-up.
Glenn Bancroft for the Outing Club write-up.
Eileen Moran for the Defender write-up.
Debbie Flaherty for doing a great job laying-out the senior formals.
Leslie Whipple for all her help with layout, pictures, and copy. Thank you for so generously sharing your time and personality with us.
All contributing photographers, especially Janet Scanlan and Niall Campbell. You really came through in a clutch for Bridget.
My friends at the Student Resource Center for allowing us to use the paper-cutter, hole-puncher, tape and anything else we needed. Thank you for lending an ear when I needed to vent my frustrations and for your constant support, it meant a lot to me.
Jacki Murphy for all her help and encouragement. We couldn't have asked for a better advisor.
Parents, patrons and members of the business community for their financial support.
Peter for providing an alternative to Alumni.
Friends and family for all your cooperation and support. It made everything much easier.

Thoughts From The Editor

We've all heard or read from previous editors of what a massive undertaking it is to work on a yearbook but I don't think it is realized until you experience it first-hand.

Putting together a 256-page book is a huge effort, especially when it's done by only a handful of people. But it is that handful of special, dedicated people that devoted hours to creating this book.

Thank you Lisa, Bridget, Maura, Kerstin and Mary. This couldn't have been done without you! We should all be proud of what we've accomplished.

We've tried to preserve our college memories as best we know how and hope you find this book well worth the effort that went into it. I hope that in the years to come it will be something you can look back on with enjoyment.

Sincerely,

Lynne M. Krupa
